Kingston's Water Supply Is Found Satisfactory

State Health Department Submits Report of Inspection of City's Water Shed Made on October 3, 1921—Brief Outline of Report.

That Kingston residents have a satisfactory water supply is the gist of the report made of an inspection of the city's watershed on October 3, 1921, a copy of which has been filed with the board of water commissioners, the board of health, and to Dr. F. W. Laidlaw, state sanitary inspector of this district.

In submitting the report to the water board C. A. Holmquist, director of sanitation of the state, writes that the result of the recent inspection indicates that the local board has taken action along the lines recommended and that the supply was in a fairly satisfactory condition at the time the reinspection was made.

The report in brief gives a brief description of Kingston, and states where the water supply is derived from. It then states that the filtration plant is located about 8 miles northwest of the city hall between No. 1 and No. 2 reservoirs. It consists of a substantial brick building in which are installed 16 Continental Jewell pressure mechanical filters 20 feet long and 8 feet in diameter, each having a rated capacity of 1/2 million gallons. Based on an average daily water consumption of 4.2 million gallons, the rate of filtration with all the units in operation is about 71 million gallons per acre per day.

Each filter contains 35 inches of sand and 10 inches of gravel and is provided with 102 strainers, two 4 inch and one 6 inch lateral underdrains. The filters are washed daily and develop a loss of head of from 2 to 5 pounds. The wash water used amounts to 8 per cent of the daily consumption. The first filtrate is allowed to waste from 3 to 4 minutes. The filters are overhauled about every five years. In cleaning the filters a few inches of water is maintained above the sand surface, the bed covered with about 2 inches of soda and allowed to soak for 24 hours and then the water run slowly to waste.

The amount of alum applied to the raw water is regulated by the chemist in charge of the laboratory and averages about 1/4 of a grain per gallon and never exceeds 1/2 a grain per gallon. The alum is dissolved in four wooden tanks 7 feet high and 6 feet in diameter and pumped by two hydraulic piston pumps into the raw water just before it enters the filters.

Liquid chlorine is applied to the filtered water by two Wallace and Tiernan automatic controlled solution feed chlorinators which are installed in a separate room in the filter house. Chlorine is applied at the rate of 0.5 parts per million. The orthotolidine test for excess chlorine is made occasionally by the chemist in charge. Scales are provided for checking the amount of chlorine applied.

There were six full cylinders of chlorine on hand at the time of the inspection. Hypochlorite of lime can be used in case of emergency. Daily analyses are made of the water for turbidity, color, alkalinity, for gelatine and agar counts and for presumptive tests for B. coli.

In our previous report it was recommended that the officials in charge of the water supply continue their careful operation of the filters and make every effort to eliminate all sources of contamination on the watershed. From the recent inspection it appears that these recommendations have been carried out. The filtration plant is being carefully operated and concrete vaults for privies have been constructed in places where it was found that they might be a source of pollution to the water supply.

At the time of the inspection samples of water from the public water supply were collected and sent to the division of laboratories and research for examination. The results of the analyses show the test to be satisfactory.

The results of the analyses of samples of raw water collected from the high service supply show a water practically colorless, slightly turbid, very soft and having a faint earthy odor. The figures for nitrogen in its various forms are moderate with the exception of nitrate which are somewhat high and indicate the presence of decomposing organic matter.

As a result of the inspection it may be concluded: That the water supply furnished to the city of Kingston was of a satisfactory sanitary quality at the time of the inspection.

That the authorities in charge of the water supply have taken commendable action in protecting their watershed.

That there remains, however, a number of unabated violations of the rules and regulations protecting the supply from contamination.

That the filtration and chlorination are apparently operated with care and efficiency.

It is therefore recommended: That the authorities in charge of the water supply maintain a careful sanitary patrol over the watershed and take action to have all unsanitary conditions and violations of the rules and regulations abated.

That daily tests be made of the filtered and chlorinated water for ex-

MOSCOW TO MAKE REPLY FOR RUSSIA

Conditions of Allies for Hegemony of Soviets Expected to Be Rejected in Large Part as Involving Too Much Foreign Control.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Genoa, April 13.—The Allied program for the reconstruction of Russia has been put directly up to the Soviet government by the Bolshevik delegates and delay of 24 hours has been asked before Russia's answer is made. The Russians were to have given their reply to the Allied proposals this afternoon. The Russians are handicapped in communicating with their government by the weakness of the wireless plant at Moscow. The Allied experts hold that a loan or the creation of credits is necessary for Russia if the country is to be put upon its feet economically. So far Russia has not secured any outside capital with the exception of one small loan from a Scandinavian country.

Furthermore it is proposed that a joint commission be created, composed of both Russians and Allied citizens, to determine the method by which Russia shall pay her foreign debts. It has been suggested that some of the methods introduced to enforce German indemnity payments be borrowed in the case of Russia to compel the payment of foreign debts. In this connection the proposal has been made that bonds be issued to cover the amount of the debts, supervised by an Allied commission which will have the right to control certain sources of Russian government revenue to guarantee payment of the bonds.

The suggestion of Allied control is opposed by a minority of the Allied experts on the ground that outside nations have no right to interfere with the domestic affairs of Russia.

It is generally expected that Russia will oppose a majority of the Allied proposals, particularly the suggestion that court be created to assure the property rights of foreigners and that the Allies be given extensive control of Russian trade. By their aggressive attitude the Russians have made it plain that they will not bend their knees to secure recognition of their government.

Among the Allied proposals now before Lenin and his colleagues at Moscow are the following: Re-establishment of the gold standard in Russia; balancing of the budget; co-operation of central banks for the deflation of currency; creating of an international corporation to extend credits to Russia; abolition of government restriction on exchange dealings; the lifting of restrictions on the customs and tariffs to insure equal rights for foreign capitalists; foreign loan to assist Russian railways; creating of a new court system in Russia to assure justice to all persons; Moscow government to pledge itself not to make forced loans and to guarantee the rights of foreigners; Moscow government not to requisition private property; Moscow government to insure freedom of commerce; soviet government to guarantee freedom from excess taxation and from police searches; no court sentences in Russia for political crimes except deportation and the creation of free ports.

Extra-territorial rights, such as certain patents, including the United States, long have exercised in China and Turkey, are demanded in Russia. One of the proposals of the Allied experts is that when a foreigner is arraigned in a Russian court, he cannot be punished except with the consent of the consul representing the country of which he is a citizen. Nor can the home of any foreign resident be searched unless the consul representing his country gives his consent.

ARBUCKLE NOT GUILTY, THIRD JURY QUICKLY SAYS

By Telegram to The Freeman. San Francisco, April 14.—Roscoe "Patty" Arbuckle, famous film comedian, on his third trial for manslaughter, for the death of Virginia Rappe, was freed of the charge by a jury of eight men and four women after but a minute's deliberation yesterday.

Arbuckle will yet have to face in federal court a charge of having liquor in his possession on the occasion of the party in violation of the prohibition laws. He is expected to enter a plea of guilty. As it is a first offense, a fine is likely.

H. M. SHRADY, SCULPTOR, DEAD

Man Who Won Instant Success in Art Spent Much of Time in Uster County—His Grant Memorial a Masterpiece.

Henry Merwin Shradly, the well known sculptor, son of the late Dr. George F. Shradly, died Wednesday in St. Luke's Hospital, New York city, after a long illness. Mr. Shradly was born in New York city on October 12, 1871, but spent a considerable part of his boyhood at Flatbush, Uster county, where his father for many years owned and occupied a summer home. On graduating from Columbia University in 1894, he had no thought of an artistic career. He studied for the bar but never practiced, and from 1895 to 1900 was engaged in business.

While convalescing from typhoid fever he took up painting for amusement. His wife, who was Harriet Moore, saw the merit of his work and unknown to her husband sent several of his paintings to the exhibition of the National Academy of Design, where they quickly found purchasers. Mr. Shradly then turned his hand to sculpture and modeled some small animal figures that met with even more cordial reception than his pictures, and so many orders came in that he felt bound to adopt sculpture as a profession.

The most remarkable thing about his career is that these instant successes came to a man who never had taken a lesson in drawing or modelling. He modeled many famous monuments and memorials, one of the most famous being the colossal monument to General Grant which is to be unveiled in Washington on April 27. He won the competition for this memorial, whose cost is $250,000. It has been called the most ambitious piece of architectural sculpture ever attempted in this country. It consists of an enormous tiered platform with a cavalry group at one end and an artillery group at the other and an equestrian statue of General Grant in the center on a high granite pedestal surrounded by four bronze lions.

During more than twelve years of labor in executing this commission, Mr. Shradly spared no pains in achieving accuracy, making investigations in biology at the Museum of Natural History to perfect himself in animal anatomy, and dissecting horses and mounting their skeletons to gain complete knowledge of their form.

He is survived by his wife and four children and two brothers, George F. Shradly, who made his headquarters in Kingston for several years while he was at the head of the New York Board of Water Supply Police during the Ashokan construction, and Charles D. Shradly, both of New York city.

HAMILTON GLEE CLUB HERE APR. 18

The Kingston High School Athletic Association and the Prisma Society have engaged the Hamilton College Musical Club to give a concert in the Kingston High School auditorium, Tuesday evening, April 18. The club has given twelve concerts so far this season. Each concert has shown improvement, and they are now in the mid-season form of exceptional merit.

The music for the club this year has been carefully chosen, and the result is an exceedingly well balanced program in which classical and popular selections each have a part. The Glee Club numbers 30 and the instrumental club 12.

A number of specialty acts have been added to the program which give variety. The Glee Club quartet, Messrs Burns, Macey, Moore and Thompson, have a series of songs which are highly entertaining, such as "The Clang of the Forge," "The Winter Song," and "Mamma's Lullaby," in addition to some of their college songs.

The classical side consists of a violin solo by Hladel, and a vocal solo by Thompson who was boy soloist at the Grace Church, New York City, for several years and possesses a voice of rare beauty such as is seldom found in a college glee club.

Following the concert dancing will be held in the gymnasium with the music being rendered by the Hamilton College orchestra.

Both Mr. Lewis and Mr. Newton are "krads" of Hamilton and it is their desire to give the wandering minstrels a royal time. The fellows will be ledged with the citizens of the city and those desiring to help the management may do so by handing their names to Mr. Lewis, of President Rowland of the A. A.

"WET" VICTORIES STARTLE CONGRESS

"Liberal" Element Takes Heart and W. Burke Cockran, Its Spokesman, Calls This the "Turning Point" for Volsteadism.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, April 13.—For the first time since the Anti-Saloon League blew its hot, dry breath across the United States, sweeping everything before it, the small "liberal" element in congress seriously believes that the tide of popular favor is turning against the Volstead law so strongly that something can soon be done toward modifying the law, probably the line of light wines and beer.

The Anti-Volsteaders have said before that sentiment was turning against Volsteadism, but they said it as a matter of principle and were not sure of their ground. This time they sincerely believe it, and their belief is shared by a surprisingly large number of dry congressmen.

Three notable "liberal" victories, scored at the polls this week, have contributed largely to this belief. They are:

1.—In the 37th congressional district of New York—Judge Frank Irvine, Democrat, running on a wet platform, came within 3,000 votes of being elected to congress over Lewis Henry, Republican, in a district that is normally overwhelmingly Republican.

2.—In the 12th congressional district of Illinois, Representative Ira C. Copley, Republican of Aurora, one of the oldest members of the Illinois delegation, was defeated by the primary for re-nomination by Frank R. Irvols, who campaigned on a liberalization and taxation platform.

3.—In the 16th congressional district of Illinois—Representative Clifford Ireland, Republican of Peoria, was defeated in the primaries by William E. Hull, on a straight wet and dry issue.

The defeat of the two veteran Illinois members in the primaries created a situation in the house today that is not far removed from panic. Copley is serving his sixth term, is a member of the all-powerful ways and means committee and was looked upon as a certain victor. He has consequently voted dry.

Ireland is serving his third term, is chairman of the committee on accounts and also has voted dry at every opportunity.

Both were beaten by liberal candidates. Copley's defeat caused a sensation. When a man has served six terms they regard him as a fixture in the house.

W. Bourke Cockran, Democrat, of New York, spokesman for the liberal element in congress, and whose wet and dry debate with William Jennings Bryan at the San Francisco convention made oratorical history, was one of those to characterize these political results today as the "turning point."

"It is the awakening," said Representative Cockran. "It is indicative of the awakening of the common sense of America which has been asleep since the passage of this Volstead law."

"Volsteadism cannot continue. Sooner or later the common sense of an imposed-upon citizenship is going to assert itself and overturn this legislation dictated by a fanatical minority."

"Volsteadism is based on the theory that nobody is good, that all are bad, and therefore must be enslaved by this sort of legislation."

"Volsteadism was imposed at a time when the country was not mentally normal. Even I, myself, did not realize just what Volsteadism meant, that things would come to such a pass where drunkenness is increased, where law-breaking even by reputable citizens, is the accepted thing; that cannot continue. This thing must stop. And I believe this is the turning point."

COAL STILL COMING HERE FROM MINES FOR SHIPMENT.

Although the coal strike has been in effect since April 1, shipments of coal are still being received over the Ulster & Delaware railroad by the North River Coal Company and loaded into coal barges at the trestle on the Hudson creek for shipment to points along the Hudson river.

Since the coal strike, coal trains have been coming into Kingston every other day instead of daily. This coal that is being received is what had been mined and was stored at the mines.

TURKS AGAIN START FIGHTING

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Athens, April 13.—The Turkish Nationalists have opened an offensive against the Greeks over most of the Anatolian battle front, according to advices received from Smyrna today.

All of the Turkish attacks were repulsed with considerable losses, according to a communique issued by Greek headquarters.

The Greek Catholics at Smyrna are reported to have sent a communication to Rome asking the Vatican to mediate for peace.

(Note: It was announced previously to the convening of the international economic conference at Genoa that the Allied powers would reach some sort of agreement to restore peace in the Near East. Nothing has been done so far, however. It was significant that the Turks timed the opening of their offensive so that it would coincide with the opening of the Genoa conference. Turkey was the only nation not invited to the Genoa party.)

WALTON TICKET BILL SIGNED

Governor Miller on Wednesday signed the bill of Senator Walton prohibiting the sale of any theatre ticket in excess of fifty cents of its face value and requiring persons who re-sell tickets to obtain a license from the State Comptroller and file a bond of $1,000. Under the Walton bill the annual license for the ticket brokers will be $100 and the state comptroller is given the power to adopt rules governing the issuing of licenses.

Governor Miller in approving the bill said he considered the licensing feature valid, but he intimated that he did not feel certain about the section limiting the profits of the tickets. He said: "This bill is like one disapproved by me last year, in the respect that it limits the price at which a theatre ticket broker may resell a ticket. It differs from that in the respect that it provides for licensing such brokers and declares that the subject matter is of public interest."

"Eminent counsel have recently submitted to me a brief containing at least plausible arguments in support of the bill. I have concluded to give them a chance to address these arguments to a court, inasmuch as the bill is aimed at undoubted abuse and at least one provision of it is probably valid."

AT OUR STORE

Your dynamite dollar ~ is now worth $1.35

WE will sell you 135 to 140 sticks of Dumorite for the same money you now pay for 100 sticks of 40% dynamite.

Dumorite, the new Du Pont Farm Dynamite, has approximately the same strength as regular 40% dynamite and gives you equal work, stick for stick, under ordinary conditions. Thus Du Pont engineers have found a way to give you almost 1/3 more dynamite for your dollar.

You won't get a "dynamite headache" from using Dumorite and it will not freeze.

Think—this year, with Dumorite, you can clear nearly 1/3 more acres of stump land at the same cost you paid last year for dynamite, or you can clear the same amount as in 1921, at a saving of approximately one-fourth.

Let Dumorite help you make 1922 the biggest land clearing year of all—and let us help you figure the cost of your season's blasting work. We know that we can save you about one-fourth—maybe more.

PREMIUMS ON CRIME.

The resolution adopted by the Presbytery of New York to establish communication with other denominations and religious bodies with a view of finding some way to enforce the law in New York city is so different from the attitude taken by some other religious denominations that its sponsors consider it necessary to explain that personality they are prohibitionists.

But they find it absolutely necessary to reach a basis on which to work together and for that reason believe that the question of prohibition should be left in the background. The Presbytery's action was taken in response to an appeal to put the crusade against liquor in the background and unite to fight crimes of violence.

The appeal and its resultant action and explanation furnish a commentary on civic conditions which is startling. A community which devotes itself to enforcement of one law to the exclusion of other laws and suffers consequences which compel a religious body to pick for the enforcement of all laws and at the same time require an explanation like that of the New York Presbytery has reached a stage where it should take stock of itself.

Crimes of violence are rampant not only in New York city but in practically every community in the United States. Ulster county has not been free from them. Of the seven persons indicted by the last grand jury who have been arraigned, thus far, nine were accused of crimes of violence and five with violating the liquor tax law. Can it be said that violation of prohibition exceeds the other crimes in importance? By enforcing strict obedience to prohibition to the exclusion of other laws will other crimes become less? Experience does not indicate such a fact. Nevertheless, a small group of prohibitionists insist that every force of government shall be devoted exclusively to running down prohibition violators, even to impressing the Army and Navy for the work.

Does not such an attitude by the prohibition fanatics place a premium on other crimes? Is not the action of the Presbytery of New York the natural result?

"BOOKLEGGING."

We all know what bootlegging is, but comparatively few of us know anything about "booklegging," yet the latter industry flourished long before the former was heard of. Booklegging is the business of furnishing forbidden books to those willing to pay high prices for them. It seems that there are many such books, some of which certain literary critics think ought not to be banned—except in the case of the "young person" who is amply protected by the "locked cases" of libraries open to the public. However that may be, it is certain that the booklegger, like the bootlegger, is a money maker. We read, for example, that Casanova's Memoirs, printed in Pittsburgh in 12 volumes some years ago and privately offered at $125, now brings a "sky-high" price.

In regard to this "hidden literature," much of which comes from abroad, a New York correspondent writes: "Right now the literary cult is eagerly awaiting the running of the customs blockade by 'Clydes,' the work of James Joyce, recently printed in Paris. It began as a serial in one of our magazines and was stopped. Now it comes overseas as a book, and its booklegging price is bound to be very high. George Moore, the Englishman, has written a number of books that are most difficult to obtain in this country. His 'Storyteller's Holiday' is considered cheap at $50 from a booklegger. His 'Heloise and Abelard' and 'Avalons' command fancy prices. Schnitzler's 'Casanova's Homecoming' and 'Reigen' are among bookleggers' the best sellers. Other books that have 'booklegger' value include Huneker's 'Painted Veils,' the 'Epigrams of Martial,' and 'Cabell's Jargon.' The 'Art of Love,' written by a Boston physician, which suddenly vanished when the demand for it was at its height, is now being extensively 'booklegged' in the metropolis. Though mistakes have been made, the view of this writer, "much that has been proscribed is really and for general consumption."

NAMES FOR SHIPS.

The Shipping Board has decided to rename its liners bearing such names as the Bay State, the Old North State, the Lone Star State, etc., after our Presidents, and it is so far settled that, in addition to the George Washington, we shall have the Abraham Lincoln, the Theodore Roosevelt, the Grover Cleveland, the Thomas Jefferson, the Andrew Jackson and the Warren G. Harding. Including Mr. Harding we have had 28 Presidents, but at present it is proposed to name only 24 ships after our Chief Magistrates. There will be more ships in the future, however, with opportunity to use the names of all the Presidents and more. Will there then be a choice from names of leading statesmen who did not become President, such as Clay, Webster, Calhoun, etc.? The change proposed, and already in operation, is no doubt for the better, but hard and fast rules in any such connection are questionable.

The British liners, like the Pullman cars, carry reminders of ancient Roman provinces. National history is drawn upon in the naming of French ships. The names of great poets and composers are found among the Italian liners, while mythology and geography furnish material in the naming of the ships of other nations. Our decision to have a "Presidential fleet" is suggestive of the German custom of using the names of their imperial rulers of the past, but is not less desirable for that reason.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?
1. Do sparrows bathe in water?
2. Should daffodil blossoms growing out of doors be picked?
3. I caught a snake a few days ago and though I give it worms and flies and other things I know snakes like it refuses to eat anything. A friend says snakes never eat in captivity. Why?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.
1. Why do some people call the teacher bird, "goosebird"?
From the shape of its nest, a rounded heap on the ground, with an opening at one side, roughly resembling a Dutch oven. Also called teacher bird from its note, and loud croaking thrush from the bright red-colored V on the top of its head. It is not a thrush at all, but a warbler—Scotus auricapillus.
2. Do bees carry a stone for ballast while flying?
Not for ballast, probably. This is an ancient myth founded on writings of Aristotle and Pliny, but it is based on a bit of real observation. The mason bee does actually carry something resembling a small stone, but it is grains of sand stuck together with a sticky fluid from the bee's mouth, and used in building the masonry cells, constructed by this bee as storehouse for food for her larva.

3. Are the tassels on corn stalks in place of flowers?
They are flowers, the staminate kind that produces pollen, necessary to the other or pistillate kind of blossom, producing ovals. These ovals can grow into seed only after being fertilized by pollen. Cut off your corn tassels and the crop will be nil. It is thought that the tassels are not fertilized by pollen from tassels on their own plants, but from wind-blown pollen from a neighbor, thus insuring double strength to the seeds formed by this combination.

April 13, 1912—Frank Slater of West Hurley badly injured when he fell into a quarry hole while on the way home.
Mrs. Henry S. Hewitt died at her home on Green street.

HURLEY.
April 13.—Mr. Freer has purchased a radio outfit and his village friends are most glad to assist him in its demonstration. One evening a concert in Pittsburgh was heard while other public gatherings have also been listened into.
Miss Eva Hiller has returned from her winter's stay in Bermuda.
Gilbert Cole, who has been very ill with influenza, is now slowly recovering.

The roast beef supper in the village church last week was a complete success in every way. Besides our Hurley folk there was quite a sprinkling of good friends from outside the village. Not the least that helped in the serving of the meal was the newly arranged and equipped kitchen. Over fifty dollars was netted for the needs of the Ladies' Aid Society, whose special function now is putting the church in fine condition.

John Cole injured his thumb severely some time ago. The injury is doing nicely.
Miss Jane Hasbrouck on Saturday last while trimming vines in her garden met with a painful but not a serious injury to her eye. Doctor Bert Loughman attending her.

Special services appropriate to Holy Week are held in our village church. This will include an early Easter Sunday service with communion.

The Chappell family came up Saturday to spend Easter week in their summer home.
Grant Smith has a position in the Van Kleek garage in Kingston. Ray Smith has charge of the blacksmith shop in Hurley.

Mrs. Cameron who has been spending the winter with her daughter in Wheeling, West Virginia, has returned to Hurley.

Miss Mericle was a mid-week visitor in the village.
The entertainment by Mrs. Freach's class last Friday evening was a success from start to finish. Besides the play, there was a mixed program so that all tastes could be suited. Those taking part did well and the audience enjoyed it all. A tidy sum of money was netted.

MOMBACCUS

Mombaccus, April 13.—There will be preaching in the M. E. Church Sunday, April 16th. All come and hear our new preacher, the Rev. W. W. Churchill.

Miss Beulah Terwilliger spent the week-end with Kingston friends.
Kenneth Van Wylen of Cornell College is spending his Easter vacation with his parents in this place.

Miss Mary Terwilliger spent Saturday in Kerhonkson.

Mr. Toback is making extensive improvements to his dwelling.
William Andrae has purchased a new new Buick.

Mrs. Marie Martine and daughter Mrs. Elva Terwilliger spent one day last week calling on friends in the lower neighborhood. They were all glad to see them for they always carry sunshine wherever they go.

The new barn of S. Linderbaum is nearly completed also, the large boarding house of A. Dresholt.

We were all sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Myerson. Our sympathy is with her family.

Mrs. Elva Terwilliger will soon leave us for Mohonk Lake where she has a fine position.

Clarkson Quick and Benjamin Markle were out of town on business on Monday last.

Miss Elizabeth Platz is spending a few days with her mother at Hill Crest.

Helps digestion

—and cleans a coated tongue

Thousands of men and women have found relief from various digestive disturbances by eating Fleischmann's Yeast.

It is human nature to want to find out "why." So far as science can tell us this is the reason:

Fleischmann's Yeast is a food abundant in certain elements which are necessary to health and life itself. It promotes the flow of bile and of pancreatic juice. It has a remarkably beneficial effect on the whole digestive process. It cleans a coated tongue.

Try Fleischmann's fresh yeast in orange juice or in milk. Men like it in milk shakes and malted milk. Women like it spread on bread or crackers.

Keep your digestion in the pink of condition and your tongue clean and healthy by eating 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast fresh every day before or between meals. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer today.

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

KIND SLIPPERY ELM

"You've asked me to make a speech about the ways of the Slippery Elm," said the Slippery Elm.

"We have," said Billie Brownie, "and we are all waiting to hear it."

All of the Brownies sat under a Slippery Elm tree and listened.

"Sometimes I'm called a Moose Elm," the Slippery Elm began. "Funny name," said Rennie Brownie.

"Hush, Rennie," said Billie. "You mustn't interrupt when anyone is telling a story."

"But I want to know what it means, or why they ever call the Slippery Elm by that name."

"Yes, I'll forgive you," laughed Billie. "For you wanted to be well informed, which, in other words, means that you wanted to be taught and to learn a lot."

"Do tell us, Slippery Elm, what everything means which you think we might not otherwise understand."

"I have been called a Moose Elm because the animal known as the Moose is fond of the Slippery Elm shoots."

"But, for that matter, I don't see why I haven't been called a Boy Elm."

"Boys are very fond of the bark of the young shoots of my family. They like the sweet bark which is to be found there and they like to chew it."

"Even girls like it, too. I do believe that they should sometimes call us Girl Elm and Boy Elm, as well as Slippery Elm and Moose Elm."

"We're called the Red Elm at times, because our wood is red."

"The sweet bark is juicy, as well as pleasing in other ways. If they would only take the bark from the limbs it wouldn't do as much harm as it does when they take it from the young shoots."

"In the spring, how the boys and girls do go after the Slippery Elm shoots! Dear, dear me, how they do like us!"

"Our inside bark has been used to make poultices for sore throats and sore chests. Chewing slippery elm is supposed to be good for a sore throat or a cold. In fact, we are like doctors, we're so good at healing."

"And we're pleasant to taste. I don't mean that doctors are, for no one really knows. Doctors are never tasted as we are. The doctors give medicine for people to swallow, and it is often very bad tasting medicine, I've heard."

"We're different from the American Elm, for we have rough leaves, with stiff hairs growing on them."

"We don't in the least care for style. Sometimes our branches stick out on one side and not on another, and we do all sorts of queer things like that."

"We grow to be very tall if we're not entirely used up before we get a good start at growing."

"But it is nice to be a tree which gives pleasure in the way of cool shade and which is used for lumber, and which does well this way, too."

"And it is especially nice to think of how much good we can do in sickness, and how much pleasure we can give."

"I'm very glad I'm a Slippery Elm and not a Moose Elm, which just cares for beauty. The Moose Elm is small and very pretty, but it doesn't do the fine work in its tree life that I do."

"Yes, I'm thankful I'm a Slippery Elm."

"And now my speech is over, Brownies, and I must say you have been good listeners."

"You've made an excellent speech," said Rennie Brownie, as he rose to thank the Slippery Elm.

"I have found it a fine speech," said Rennie Brownie.

"We've all been delighted with the speech," said the Brownies in chorus. "And we thank you sincerely and much," they added.

"It isn't always, if ever, correct to say we thank you much," I know," Rennie Brownie said afterward, "but we wanted some special and unusual way of thanking you, Slippery Elm tree."

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

A nice muffin which the whole family will enjoy is:

Oatmeal Muffins.—Cover two cupsful of uncooked oatmeal in a bowl, pour over one and one-half cupsful of sour milk; cover and let stand over night. In the morning add one-third of a cupful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of melted butter, one egg well beaten, one teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one cupful of flour. Beat thoroughly, place in buttered hot iron gem pans, bake twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Finnan Haddie, Country Style.—Cut a two-inch cube of fat salt pork in small dice and fry; then drain. Put two tablespoonfuls of the pork fat in a saucepan, add two table-spoonfuls of flour and stir until well blended, then pour on gradually while stirring one cupful of rich milk. Bring to the boiling point and add one cupful of cooked flaked haddie, the pork scraps and the yolks of two eggs, slightly beaten, add one and one-half cupsful of potato cubes which have been cooked in salted water until tender, then drained. Season with salt and pepper and heat; serve hot.

Fig Souffle.—Cook five washed figs in a light sugar syrup until very soft, drain and cut in very fine bits. Beat the whites of four eggs until stiff, add one-half cupful of sugar and a pinch of salt; continue beating until well blended then fold in the figs and add grated orange peel to flavor. Turn the mixture into buttered and sugared custard cups, set into a pan of water and bake at 325° F. Serve with sugar and whipped cream.

Cake Crumb and Cocoa Pudding.—Take a well buttered baking dish and cover the bottom with a cupful of cake crumbs, sprinkle with cocoa and sugar with a grating of nutmeg; repeat until the dish is nearly full, then pour over cupful of milk and two well-beaten eggs, adding a pinch of salt. You never can tell what will happen."—Boston Transcript.

Improve Air in Cities.
The best air is found in cities. In London, Edinburgh and Paris, there are about 200,000 to 250,000 dust particles in the cubic centimeter. A white dust, about the size of the finest part of the dust, is about the size of the dust. The air having the least dust, as far as observations have been made, is that of the western mountains of Scotland and the Swiss mountains. In these regions there are from 10 to 7,000 particles of dust in the cubic centimeter.

HIGHLAND.
Highland, April 12.—Friday evening in the M. E. Church parlors, a large delegation assembled as members of the Auxiliary Club, a woman's organization, which meets every month to perform such duties as may be deemed wise and expedient for promoting and perpetuating the work of the club. The hostesses of the occasion, Mrs. H. Schofield, Mrs. E. Townend, Misses Edith and Hattie Dickenson and Miss Dorothy Churchill, were untiring in their efforts to please. The meeting opened with devotional exercises by the Rev. and Mrs. F. A. Coons. After that the gavel fell for business. The president, Mrs. R. H. Decker expressed her sincere thanks to chairman and assistants for their loyalty and untiring efforts in the successful St. Patrick's supper. She also extended a cordial welcome to all, also voiced the sentiments of all for the pleasure of the return of the pastor, the Rev. Foster A. Coons and family, who enters his fifth year as pastor. He then acknowledged with pleasure and appreciation the kind remarks, and expressed gratitude to everyone who have in any way helped to make his pastorate a delightful one. His untiring efforts and labors will bring great success. One new member was admitted, Mrs. G. Eckert. Plans were made for a reception to the pastor and family for Friday evening, April 21st, in the church parlors. To this the congregation and friends are invited. The meeting closed with hostesses serving delicious refreshments, and after a social time, all departed for their homes with pleasant memories of the April evening session.

The U. D. Society was entertained Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Harcourt J. Pratt, at her home on Vineyard avenue.

Mrs. Dewitt Clearwater, who has been ill for some time, glad to report is improving and downstairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Atkins and daughters were shoppers in Poughkeepsie Tuesday.

Herman Dayton of Jersey City, brother of I. C. Dayton of this place, was a week-end guest of his brother and wife, at their home on Grand street.

Mr. and Mrs. Loria Schantz are entertaining their daughter, Miss Kathryn for her Easter vacation. She will return at close of her vacation to Elmira, where she is expected to finish her college course in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kuriz of Wilcox avenue, entertained for dinner on Monday evening the Rev. and Mrs. Foster A. Coons and son Sheldon, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Feeter.

Mrs. Kelsey Staples has tendered her resignation as organist of the First M. E. Church here, to take effect May 1st. These people will in the future reside in Peekskill. She has been organist for nine years.

Mrs. Livingston Rhoades will succeed her, and it is hoped the choir members will all go out and assist in every way to have good music for the future, as well as in the past.

50,000 FINGERLING TROUT HERE FOR DISTRIBUTION

Much of Stocking Benefit Lost Through "Cradle Snatchers."

The Ulster County Fish and Game Association received on Tuesday between 40,000 and 50,000 fingerling trout for distribution in the stream of the county. The little trout were of the brook, lake, brown and rainbow species. In all of the various streams and lakes of the county where these fish will live an effort is being made to restock the waters in order to keep the fishing up to the usual high standard for which Ulster county is noted.

The association annually puts on thousands of trout fingerlings. Fishermen are urged to cooperate with the fish and game authorities and not take trout from the streams which are underized. If the fishermen would cooperate in this way and allow the trout placed this year in the streams to mature fishing would be much better next year. Each year, however, hundreds of these little trout are caught after they have been placed in the waters and much of the effort of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association is of no avail.

Easter Cantata.

Special music will be a feature of the Easter services in St. James' Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday. At the evening service the choir will render Trobridge's "Easter Cantata," "Emmanuel."

When Will There Be A Disarmament of Dining Tables?

Suppose everybody would recognize the fact that there's no gain but much loss in keeping up hostilities with the stomach!

Suppose the ancient aggravation of improper food on indignant digestive organs should be settled with guarantees of sensible diet and tranquil digestion!

The saving would be beyond all possibility of counting.

Yet millions go on declaring war on the stomach and accepting war in return—loading up on starchy, heavy, unbalanced and highly-seasoned food at breakfast or lunch—and wondering why comfort, happiness and efficiency are out of reach.

Grape-Nuts makes a friend of the taste and an ally of the stomach.

There's a charm and satisfaction to this delicious food which prompts appetite to say, "There's a meal!" and digestion to answer, "Thank goodness, here's peace at last!"

Grape-Nuts is the perfected nutriment of wheat and malted barley—sweet, crisp, and wonderfully nourishing. It digests quickly, and provides the necessary elements, including the vital mineral salts, for body, nerve and brain.

Order Grape-Nuts from your grocer today, and let a delighted taste pass a treaty of peace along to an enthusiastic digestion and assimilation.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is Mulford's coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely harmless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulford's at any drug store, and a few cents will last the whole family for months. Two or three tablespoons of Mulford's in a cup of water with a little warm water is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, sunny, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dirt, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulford's. Advertisement.

OBSERVE EQUALITY IN RINGS

Up-to-Date Custom is for Bride to Equip Man of Her Choice With Wedding Symbol.

Custom has decreed that when a man receives from the woman he loves a promise that she will be his wife he should forthwith buy her a ring. It is an excellent custom, according to the jeweler.

Most ancient and modern lovers have observed it but modern lovers are going one better. Instead of one ring, two are bought, and they are not both for the lady. Jack and Jill together wear the sign of their engagement.

Equality of sex in voting and in the eyes of the law is responsible for this new idea, according to the Louisville Courier-Journal. For, mark you, two pockets bear the strain. No modern, self-respecting Jill would allow her Jack to carry for his own finger.

And when the plain gold circle follows, again ring equality is carried out.

It is no new custom for men to wear wedding rings. They have done so for ages. But it is a new idea that they should not have to pay for them. The up-to-date bride insists on doing her share, and buys the ring for her groom, while he purchases the sign of her new estate.

Irish Landlords Get Out

Lord Gough, like many another Irish landlord, is leaving his home to the old country. Lough Curra castle in County Galway has lately been dismantled and its fine old contents disposed of.

The castle, which stands overlooking the Lough, is wonderfully picturesque. It was built for Lord Gort by Nash himself at a cost of $40,000 and was purchased by the Goughs after the Irish famine of 1847, when the viscount of his day ruined himself in the endeavor to feed his starving tenants. The present home of the Gorts in the Isle of Wight, East Cowes castle, was built by Nash, who designed it for his own occupation.

Another valuable property to go is Sir Hew Hamilton Dalrymple's romantic home, Luchie, on the ruins of Tantallon castle, which figures in "Marion." The property, with a fine acreage, includes the greater part of North Berwick. Sir Hew, it is good to hear, is at least not selling The Bass Rock in the Firth of Forth, which is his—London Mail.

Products of India

The principal agricultural products of India include wheat, rice, oil seeds, cotton, jute, sugar, tobacco and tea. In British India (in 1919-1920), 255,000,000 acres had crops growing on them, about 31 per cent being rice crops; 9 per cent wheat; 38 per cent other pulse and food grains; 7 per cent cotton, jute and other fibers; and 5 per cent oil seeds. Jute cultivation has been very profitable. The mineral products, besides mica, rubies and jade, include salt, the production of which is about 1,891,000 tons. In 1919 the output of coal in India was 22,628,000 tons, nine-tenths of it coming from Bengal, Orissa and Bihar; crude petroleum (chiefly from Burma), 508,000,000 gallons; manganese ore, about 558,000 tons; saltpeter, 18,000 tons; wolfram, 3,577 tons; monazite, 2,024 tons, and gold, which is nearly all from Mysore, about 507,000 ounces.

The Horse in Painting

No real interest is taken in the horse until Van Dyke's time, he and Rubens doing more for it than all the previous painters put together. Rubens was a good rider, and rode nearly every day.—Ruskin.

POWER OF TABOO

Inventor Worthy of High Rank Among Statesmen.

Simplest and Most Effective Form of Government Ever Devised, Though Now Somewhat Shaken.

One of the most ancient and simple methods of exploitation and oppression on record was in full working order in the Sandwich Islands in 1778.

That method was the power of taboo. The name of the man who first uttered the word "taboo" in an authoritative tone and put the fear of it into the hearts of savages has not been preserved in the memory of the race. But he ranks high among statesmen of the old school.

Under this direct and unanswerable system of government, all that the chief, or old man, or boss hunter had to do when he wanted his tribesmen to refrain from consuming, touching or appropriating an article or a commodity was to point to it and say "taboo." That meant that nobody could consume, touch or appropriate the article thus designated. For instance, if the coconut crop was ruined and there were only a few coconut trees on the island yielding fruit, all the chief had to do to conserve the limited yield for himself was to announce that coconuts were taboo.

Or, if the game had vanished and there were only a few wild things left on the hunting grounds, and the chief or old man wanted them all for himself and his household, he could make the requisite provision for himself by putting the taboo on game.

Or, if the stream that ran by the village was drying up and there was danger that the chief's household might run short of water, he could fortify himself against future contingencies by the same method—a method so simple that its very simplicity gives it an air of supreme ingenuity.

And the savages obeyed. They obeyed because the chief or the old man or the boss hunter told them that if they did not obey something unspeakably terrible would happen to them in the hereafter, if not in the here.

For many generations—nobody has even tried to estimate how many—this obedience to the power of taboo was maintained, and no savage in any of the Pacific Islands, where it obtained ever dreamed of running the risk of breaking the taboo.

Finally, in quite modern times—possibly since the Declaration of Independence was signed in Philadelphia—some savage of incredible courage or ignorance risked his happiness in both the here and the hereafter by breaking the taboo. We can imagine the astonishment of this primitive man, and of all his fellows, when none of the terrors with which the inventor of the taboo had invested it came to pass.

That astounding discovery ended the power of taboo as an individual weapon.—Atlanta Constitution.

Knowledge Leads to Success

Two men, with a little money saved, see the same opportunity for investment. One of them finds out about it and discovers that it is not as good as it looks. He leaves it alone. The other, unwilling to find out, takes a chance and loses his money.

It is so all through life. Extra effort is needed to find out about matters only indirectly connected with your business. Finding them out is what makes mental growth and develops the resources.

It takes trouble and it takes time, but it is not the sort of trouble that keeps you up nights, and the time cannot be better spent.

It is the man who finds out who gets along. It is the healthy curious man plus the energy to look things up and be sure about them on which most success is founded.—John Blake, in Chicago Daily News.

Fish Meal New Cattle Food

Experiments with fish meal as a food for domestic animals have been made abroad and it has been found that pigs and cattle eat it with relish.

In Norway the meal is made from cod and herring. The codfish are dried first in the air and then in an oven, and afterward ground into meal. They make a highly nutritious food. Herring are boiled and placed under pressure before being ground.

In England and Scotland fish meal is made from the waste parts of all kinds of fish, first steamed and then dried and ground. This meal usually contains from 55 to 65 per cent of albuminoids, 3 to 6 per cent of fats and from 14 to 18 per cent of calcium phosphate.—New York Herald.

Belled His Name

Our reference to a faithful and distinguished soldier of the Confederacy who was named Coward and to whom his parents had given a name the first letter of which was A brings a comment from a reader in South Carolina, who supplies the further information that A. Coward during his service became a colonel and after the war for many years conducted a military school in that state.—Youth's Companion.

Gold and Silver in Shale

The association between Colorado and gold and Colorado and shale is well understood, says the Scientific American, but the idea that gold and silver may be found in shale as well as oil is a new one. The shale is drilled for its oil content, and then the carbonized product is put through the cyanide process for its gold, silver and platinum content.

Two Sorts of Contagion

Diseases are not the only things that are contagious. Kindness is contagious; usually integrity is contagious; all the positive virtues, with real red blood in their veins, are contagious.—Henry VanDyke.

BULL MOOSE MOVES QUIETLY

Nature Aids Forest Monarch to Evade Enemies—Hunters Sometimes Take Unfair Advantage.

Although taller than an ordinary horse, weighing more than half a ton, and adorned with wide-spreading antlers, the bull moose stalks with ghostly silence through the thickest forests, where man can scarcely move without being betrayed by the loud cracking of dry twigs.

In summer the moose loves low-lying, swampy forests, interspersed with shallow lakes and sluggish streams. In such places it often wades up to its neck in a lake to feed on succulent water plants, and when reaching to the bottom becomes entirely submerged. These visits to the water are sometimes by day, but usually by night, especially during the season when the calves are young and the horns of the bulls are but partly grown.

Late in the autumn, with full-grown antlers, the bulls wander through the forests looking for their mates, at times uttering far-reaching cries and calls of defiance to their rivals, and occasionally clashing their horns against the saplings in the exuberance of masterful vigor. Other bulls at times accept the challenge, and hasten to meet the rival for a battle royal. At this season the call of the cow moose also brings the nearest bulls quickly to her side. Hunters take advantage of this, and by imitating the call through a birchbark trumpet bring the most aggressive bulls down.

"Strangler" Lewis, dean of heavyweight wrestlers, might not do so well against "Brownie," wrestling bear of the Philadelphia Zoo. Nothing pleases the brute so much as to engage in a tussle with a strong man. The picture shows him ready for action just as soon as his keeper gives him the least encouragement.

Pisto's Tribute to Music.
Plato wrote: Music is a moral law. It gives a soul to the whole universe, wings to the mind, flight to the imagination, a charm to sadness, a gaily and life to everything. It is the essence of order and harmony, and leads to all that is good, just and beautiful of which it is the invisible but nevertheless the dominating, passionate and eternal form.

JACOBSON PLANS MODERN STORE

Architect George E. Lowe is busy drawing plans for the alterations to be made to the Jacobson building, Broadway and Mill street, opposite S. E. Eighmey's dry goods store, and work on turning the building into a modern clothing store will be started by the first of the month.

Mr. Jacobson, who was located for several years in the Cashin building, corner Strand and Hasbrouck avenue, was forced to vacate early this month to make room for a restaurant which will occupy the building, and is now located temporarily at No. 11 Mill street until June 1, when he expects to be able to take possession of his new store.

He bought the Broadway building some time ago. It is a three-story brick building. The first floor is occupied by one of the Globe Grocery stores, which will locate elsewhere; the second floor is occupied by Dr. Levitas, the dentist.

Under the plans being drawn the new store will occupy the entire first floor and take in also the store adjoining on Mill street, used for a fish market for many years. An entire new front will be installed, and many up-to-date changes made. The second floor will be also altered and turned into first class dental offices, and will continue to be leased by Dr. Levitas. On the third floor, now vacant, will be located two of the new store's departments.

Under the plans as outlined by Mr. Jacobson the building will be a decided addition to that part of the business section.
